.22 Benchrest Competition Sunday 6 January 2013

This competition was supposed to shot over the whole of last year with best cards submitted at the end of the year. Unfortunately nobody shot it, or if they did they were so disgusted with their scores they didn't hand the cards in!

Usually there's a hard core of five or six members who shoot this so today's entry of fourteen shooters was better than for the whole of 2011.

All sorts of rifle were used from 22 semi autos to dedicated benchrest rifles. The Competition Officer let Martin A shoot with his rifle and for a change the borrower didn't beat the lender. However at fourth place Martin's score was a very good result because as a probationer he's never shot BR before.

Jason did the novel approach, open sights and shooting from the kneeling position at the bench and Glenn now regrets not accepting the offer of a front rest. He wants a separate class for bipod users! Some good scores, especially considering that the range was jammed packed with people, all moving around which does nothing for the concentration!

For those that shot it today we hope you enjoyed it, for those that didn't try it – have go next time!

The scores were very close, the winner being decided on X count and only five points separated the top seven shooters. Congratulations to the winner.
