STEEL PLATES COMPETITION

Sunday 7 February

It's actually two competitions, the first shot standing unsupported the second with elbows rested.

Difficult to see the plates at 25m

Twelve round plates to hit, six of the same size and then six of decreasing size but they can be shot in any order. As only ten round magazines are permitted there's a compulsory mag change which tends to slow things up a bit. Shooters can use as many magazines as they wish but if you use up two and have plates left standing you are definitely going to be lower down the time list.

For some reason this competition attracts a lot of barracking from spectators and this year Phil got more than his fair share, maybe it was because of his statements about winning before he'd fired a shot?

A few shooters had disasters due to feed or misfire problems; it pays to keep your ammo warm!

Siobhan was kind and let her dad beat her in one run, and Gavin beat both Sid and Dan.

It was a very good turn out and a busy day for Tim who stood around with timer in hand for the full two hours it took to run all the shooters through the competition. However In previous years he has run this on B Range, maybe this year he didn't fancy standing in the wind and rain for a couple of hours?

Congratulations to the WINNERS

Cheer up Tim – You WON one event

Phil was rubbish without something to lean on

Ian came third in "Unsupported"

Two plates eluded Tim – now you should look glum

Nigel didn't have a good day

Who shot the rope?
